One of the men, who went to light his pipe, threw the burning match into the hole and immediately there followed a terrific expla-sion, bringing up drill, derrick and all and scattering the fragments for some distance around. One very remarkable feature is the fact that no one was seri-ously injured. Two of the workmen were burned about the face.

Naval Estimates New York, Sept. 26 .- A special to The Rerald from Washington says the annual cethinates for the anvy for the liscal year 1894 have been made up and will be cent to the secretary for transmission to congress. It is understood that about $10,000,000 has been recommended for payments on account of the new navy which will come due between July t, 1893, and June 30, 1894. No estimates are unide for new ships. This is a matter to be discussed in the secretary's report. There is considerable speculation as to what new vessels the secretary will recommend. It is believed he will ask for another battle ship and renew his recommendation for small guilboats and several torpedo cruisers.

When Colonel Gilmore informed his wife that he was feeling unwell, she immediately summened Dr. H. T. Madd, the family physician, who was not long in discovering that his suthent was saffering with a severe billious attack, and immediately called in two other physicians. They held a consultation, and prescribed something to alleviate his suffering. The medicine, though, had no effect, and, after laboring dilleratty with the satient, they were forced to acknowledge to his wife and daughter, who always accompany Gilmore on his trips to this city, that they must prepare themselves for the worst. Two priests were summened, and the last sacrament was ad-minstered.

The patient grew constantly worse, and at 6:43 p. m. he breathed his last. Colonel Giliuope had many friends in this city, and as death is mourned by the thousands of admirers who were entranced with the excellent music of his band. The body has been shipped to New York for interment.

A hastily called meeting of the exposition directors was held Saturday evening, at which it was aunounced that the band had informally agreed to completo the contract for music at the expo-cition here. The band will be under the leadership of Sergeant Charles Freuden-voll, who ranks next in command.

AN ANCIENT COFFIN. County (0.) Mound.

LEBANON, O., Sopt. 26.— Ex-Senator reported. In exploring of the most refarm, near reported and the most report of this county, he came across the county of elay coffin some three feet two inches in length and nine and one-half to ton and one-half inches across. The coffia was made of the ordinary yellow clay of this section, and had been mobiled like brick. The inside of the coffin was lined with a white or grayish material like soapstone. The middle of the coffin was covered with a that stone, and the ends were covered with bark.

All that was found in the coffin was All that was found in the count was black dust: perhaps several handsful. Not a bone was found in it, although at a short distance was found the skeletons a short distance was found the skeletons of three nduits, and not far away the bones of buffaloes. This remarkable coffin was about six feet beneath the snumnit of a mound which is about six feet high, seventy-five feet wide and ninety long. A cross section over the narrow way about six feet wide has been cut; the rest of the mound will be ant down for further discovery.

This is the only discovery of its kind in North America so far as heard from, and it will be of greatest interest to students of prehistoric remains. The coffin has been somewhat broken, and it may be impossible to get the fragments all together. In case it can be done it will be exhibited at the world's fair. An eminent archæologist has stated that this coffin was in nee by a race of people who lived here 3,000 years ago.

DARING ROBBERY. Three Men Secure Ten Thousand Doll

TACOMA, Wy., Sept. 26.—Three un-masked highwaymen rode into the coal mining town of Roslyn Saturday, entered Abrams', Snips's & Company's bank, and two of them covered Cashier Abernathy, Bookkeeper Frazer and two citizens with revolvers, while the third emptied the contents of the safe, amounting to $11,000, into a sack. Marion, Ky., Sept. 26, 1892. The law firm of James & Moore, composed of L. H. James and A. C. Moore, having been this day dissolved, the firm is now composed of L. II. James and O. M. James, and will do business at same office in the name of James & James.

Just as we go to press we are authorized to announce A. C. Noore s candidate for Commonwealth Attorney of the Fourth Judicial District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the people at the November, 1892, election.

A few days ago Mr. J. R. Jackson sent in his resignation as a Justice of the Peace in Dycusburg district to county judge Moore. The Judge asked Mr. J. L. Bugg to fill the vacancy, but he writes that he is going to leave the county about the last of the year. Consequently the vacant office is on the hunt of a deserving Democrat who lives in that section of the district. The Parss takes the liberty of suggesting the name of H. D. Myers.

By calling early—we have just received another car load of the celebrated Mitchell wagons. We have Pierce & Son.

Moore's name to be Mrs. Judia Wheeler returned placed on the ticket for Commonwealthe Attorney. This of course means that Mr. Moore is a candidate for that place. He is an excellen: young man, a rising lewyer and will, doubtless make a strong race. In politics he is a sterling Republican, being the chairman of the county committee. He deserves and un questionably will receive the unanimous support of his party.

The above cut shows the machine as a cultivator for corn, tobacco and other crops growing in rows. The fenders shown in the cut serve to protect the projecting leaves of the corn, tobacco, or whatever it may be, from injury. The driver comfortably seated regulates the sections with his feet, which rests in stirrups attached to each section. The sec tions are hung in such a manner as to permit of the freest oscillation. They may be readily moved from side by pressure from the operators foot; levers are geared to each section by which they may lowered or raised to cultivate deep or shallow, or locked securely in the desired position. To convert into a field harrow it is only necessary to remove the fenders and bolt on the center section. To convert into a seeder bolt on the seed box.

Three Machines in One.

And it is far superior to all other makes for the following reasons:

1ST-BECAUSE it's so much cheaper.

2ND-BECAUSE it's so much lighter draft.

3RD-BECAUSE it has such perfect center draft.

4TH-BECAUSE there is no weight on horse's neck.

5TH-BECAUSE of the regularity of the soed sower. 6TH-BECAUSE there is no jerking of the horse's neck.

7TH-BECAUSE it is an ABSOLUTE FORCE FEED broad cast seeder. 8TH-BECAUSE the teeth are made from the best quality of highly tempered steel.

9TH-BECAUSE it has two levers instead of one, which enables the operator to lift one section over an obstruction while the other cultivates.

CREDULOUS MR. PECK

RIDICULOUS REPORT OF THE NEW FORK LABOR COMMISSIONER.

Own Statistics and Pook Uses Them. Paliacione Reasoning, Rilogical Concin-

What is this report of Labor Commissioner Charles F. Peck, of New York, which President Harrison is quoting and about which the Republicans are making as much fuse as if it were the only really waluable piece of campaign material that they have got hold of this year? I. What did Mr. Peck attempt to show? S. What did he think would show this? S. How did he obtain the required information? 4. What figures or facts did he obtain? S. What do and do not these figures prove?

First—Mr. Peck attempted to show "the effect of the tariff on labor and wages," in order that voters might know whether a "protective tariff" or a "tariff for revenue only" is to be preferred.

Second—He evidently assumed and thought that increased production and earnings would show that the effects of the high protective tariff act of 1800 were beneficial to labor. This was a violent assumption on the part of Mr. Peck and benencial to labor. This was a violent assumption on the part of Mr. Peck and is not creditable to him as a ptatistician, a logician or a Democrat. There might be a dosen different causes for either high or low production or earnings, the most important of which might have no connection directly or indirectly with lariffs. For example, bountiful rains and favorable weather in 1891 produced good crops here when there was a scarciand favorable weather in 1891 produced good crops here when there was a scarcity abroad. This caused nusual returns for our crops and a boom in business in no way due to any tariff act. The low price of cotten made cotton mills prosperous and made more hours' (day and night) work for spinners, weavers, etc. Such causes as these may, and probably do, account for most of the increased production and earnings—which are by no means synonomous with increased wages and may mean more work for more pay, the rate of wages being the same or even lower, but Mr. Peck sees nothing except the tariff in all this. He had a "preconceived theory," which had a "preconceived theory," which makes the tariff responsible for prosperity or depression in business, and though he pretends to be a Democrat yet it is evident that he is neither a Democrat or does he understand Democratic doctrine on the tariff question. Democrats do not claim, as his report Democrats do not claim, as his report assumes, that "protection" will entirely prevent increased production and earnings or that it will raise or lower nominal wages. They simply claim that it has little or nothing to do with high or low wages, but that it does have much to do with the amount of goods that can to manage that on this be purchased with wages. But on this at important phase of the subject Mr. Peck is silent, except that he mentions the omission in a manner that would indicate that it is comparatively unimportant. That his "preconceived the ories" were in favor of protection is obvious from his statement in the New York Tribune of Sept. 3, in which he says: "I see that protection is a good thing for the manufacturers, and I know also that the manufacturers would not pay higher prices for their labor if it were not for the nuions. By means of protection labor is able to enforce the mands that it makes upon the manu facturers." Of course there is but little Peck and other pretectionists, between a duty on manufactured goods and wages.

This report that has "knocked the first duty on manufactured goods and wages. This report that has "knocked the Chicago platform silly" and "raised the hopes of the Republicans 10 per cent," is then but the half fledged and illogical conception of a protectionist. In the name of Democracy it seeks to prove or disprove the Republican claim that prosperity is impossible without "protection," whereas Democrats do not denythat in a country like this the lighter. that in a country like this-the biggest free trade country in the world when territory is considered - considerable prosperity may accompany even Me-kinley protection.

Third—Notice now how Mr. Peck

went to work to obtain the data which was to settle forever this tariff discussion. "Some 8,000 blanks," he says "were addressed and mailed to as many separate establishments throughthe state." A circular letter inout the state." A circular letter informed the manufacturers that "the information received would be used only in a general way, so that the business of any individual firm would not be recognised." Thus guaranteed against detection, 6,000 of these protected manufacturers and sealous Republicans did their duty to their country and themselves by fixing up figures which should have no doubt as to the effects of McKinlevism and sent them to Mr. Peck. leyism and sent them to Mr. Peck-gentleman who possesses a medal his ability to display figures, and deserves one for his methods of col-ng them. it what of the 2,000 who did not re-But what of the 2,000 who did not reply to Peck's circular, "How do you do, beneficiaries of McKiuley?" Why did they not reply? Could they not make figures expressive of their gratitude to McKiuley, or did they not have faith in Peck and believe that he would keep his promise to shield them from exposure by withholding all names from the public! It would be interesting to learn why they did not reply and what their replies would have been. But perhaps they would have spoiled the report for Republican purposes, in which case this eampaign would have been tame and eminteresting.

Mr. Peckl He has the same Credulous Mr. Peckl He has the same implicit confidence in the unverified figures of these interested mannfacturers that The American Economist had when it charined, by the same methods, its list of twenty-sight McKinley wage advances. But unfortunately for it The Bonessist gave names and locations, so had an investigation was possible. The below club of successful that there had been far more wage reductions in these mills them advances, and that instead of supplying reliable information the manney was sent to the sent the sent to the sent urers had treated The Economis-nilection of falsehoods. afor Aldrich is another over cred So a collection of falsehoods.

Genator Aldrich is another over credulous proteotionist statistician. When he wished to annihilate Hon. John De Witt Warner's list of "100 tariff trusts" he sent out blanks to protected manufacturers, asking them to state whether or not they were members of trusts. Of course in the face of criminal statutes and public opinion, the manufacturers strenuously denied that they were in a trust—in many cases, where they were dedging from one state to another, under aliases to escape prosecution, or where the courts had declared that they had a trust. But Aldrich paraded their deniels in The Congressional Record and apparently believes these millionaire monopolists incapable of coloring facts. As the New York World puts it: "Mr. Peck's report was made, like the Mc-Kinley tariff-law, by the manufacturers—by the people who expect to reup the benefits. They first prepared the bill, and are now reporting on its effect in the ciste of New York. In aid of this metry scheme Mr. Peck refuses to make the betters on which he besses his and of wages of $6,377,995 to 1891 over 1890—$23.11 to each of the 285,000 employees, or $43,96 to each employee in the fifty-one trades showing increased products has increased $31,000,000, about this increase in earnings meant increased rates of wages and that these were due to a tariff law, is unbecoming to him as Unsiness settled up. a statistician and inconsistent with his past records. In 1888, 1889 and 1890 he ittributed wage increases to labor or ganizatious, strikes and national pros

These statistics also contradict those of the senate committee—obtained with considerable care—which show that wages have advanced somewhat in fit teen unprotected industries, but have fallen slightly in fifteen highly protected The Sheriff Makes a List of Apindustries.

In many industries the statistics appear to be entirely inconsistent with previous and with contemporaneous statistics and to depend largely upon the elasticity of the consciences of the makers. Thus the average yearly wages in the agricultural implements industry for 1890 is $654.30 in New York and $419.10 in Macanchusetts—a difference greater than usually exists between wages in this and in European countries—and yet those two states have the same tariff law. In the second industry mentioned (arms and anyminition) the average yearly wages of $554.45 in Massachu-setts and $192 in New York—but notwithstanding this tremendons difference the high priced labor of Massachusetts competes with the pauper labor of New York. But by 1891 wages in this in-dustry had increased to $254.45—that is from about sixty-five to eighty cents per day. Analysis of other industries shows the same glaring inconsistencies and demonstrates the entire worthlessness of meh statistics, except for Republican campaign purposes.

But there are, as Mr. J. Schoenhof has shown, important and significant emissions in Peck's list of protective industries. Three of these are the highly protected and exceeding important in-dustries of cotton goods, hats, caps, etc., and iron and steel products. In these, both the number of cuployees and their annual earnings had declined heavily from 1870 to 1880. Here are the census tables (in thousands):

| No. of | No. of | No. of | No. of | Wages, | Hands. | Hands. | Cotton goods., $2,765 | 9,114 | $2,215 | 9,697. | Hals, eaps, etc. 2,630 | 5,670 | 2,155 | 5,751 | Iron and steel | products.... | 9,000 | 18,884 | 4,991 | 13,357 Totals..... 15,150 83,080 9,304 28,680 The average per hand employed is as ucts is no greater—in fact less—than the United States statistics would indicate. If space would permit many other have occurred. Let these be given, and the falsity of the whole list will soon be exposed, for the alleged advances are contrary to the experience and knowledge of the employees. Mr. Peck invites the closest scrutiny of the figures in his office, but he declares he will permit no one to see the names attached. Hence it is probable that his tables will be quoted by Republicans till the November elections. They may give itepublicans something to talk about and to buoy up their hopes, but us individual experiences are that it is more difficult to earn a living now than before 1890 this crude and garbled report of Mr. Peck is likely to prove a failure as a vote getter for the Republicaus.

Suppose that pauper labor goods would not only come in free of duty, but free of cost; what a disaster would befull us! Every one who now pro-duced these goods would have absolutey nothing to do. This certainty would be the extension of the free trade idea to its worst possible phase, and yet who among our protectionist friends would not be hanging around the wharf at dis-tribution time? Were he asked why he did not reject the good things, his an-awer would be the free traders', "There is more fun in getting plenty with little or no work than in working hard to get few things." His concern for the shoe maker and tailor would vanish as he saw them imitating his example. And then there would be time for him to study the reason why there ever was opposition to any approach to the millennium of industrial economy.—St Louis Conrier.
